

DAILY GAZETTE

WEDNESDAY, JULY 6, 1881.

GAZETTE CLEANINGS.

The comet grows dim as it rushes into space.

James Duncan's new carriages look well plying the streets. They are of the finest patterns.

The County Commissioners were in session yesterday and will remain in session this week.

The midnight clerk of the National Hotel had a suit made of the stars and stripes. It was very becoming.

Romhr's saloon on Railroad Avenue was broken into last night and the money drawer and other loose traps were taken.

The Boston Clothing House has purchased one of Hall's fine combination money safes formerly owned by McDonald & Co.

The Gallinas was very near dry yesterday on account of the amount of aqua pura used by the saloon keepers in adulterating fire water.

N. C. Hickman, one of the old timers and doing business in Leadville, came in yesterday from the north and was warmly greeted by his many friends.

Felipe Lopez, of the firm of Lopez & Delgado, started yesterday for Dodge City with 7,000 head of sheep, which he will hold for sale. They are well improved sheep.

Billy has put in a room in his saloon a washstand, bowl, pitcher, glass, combs, etc., that they who come in tired and dusty may wash and comb before appearing on the street.

J. S. Duncan yesterday put in a lot of fine mules and horses in the street car stable on Main Street, to be used on the street cars. They look like they would be able to carry the loads.

If we were to publish the names of all the respectable persons who were drunk on the Fourth there would be a wall go forth from Montezuma that would startle the burros.

We filled a telegraph order for 200 GAZETTE's for the Pacific express Monday, with the extra issued at noon that day, containing telegraphic news from Washington to within an hour of the arrival of the train.

Hon. T. Romero starts to-day to his ranch to superintend the starting of his sheep herd of 20,000 head to Dodge City where he will hold them for sale. They are improved sheep and Kansas buyers will find it a rare opportunity to invest.

Hugh Prichard has purchased the stone quarries on the west side of the creosote, about four miles from town, for $1,500. Both red and white stone is taken from this quarry. Yesterday Mr. Williams, the manager at the quarry, took out a stone thirty-eight feet long, three and a half feet wide and ten inches thick. This we consider mighty good.

Messrs. A. L. Rue, J. J. Dolan and Don Jose Montana arrived yesterday from Lincoln. They report work progressing most satisfactorily on the Homestake. They brought with them a piece of the ore taken from the lowest depth reached. It is only a small piece but contains some $75 in free gold. Mr. Brunswick has it.

Las Vegas had no general celebration, but on the plaza the band discoursed sweet music, bonfires were lighted, rockets and Roman candles shot off and the people generally collected on the streets and enjoyed themselves. It was a kind of impromptu celebration and for real enjoyment was fully as successful as more pretentious affairs. Fire works were also had on the east side and large crowds collected on the main thoroughfares.

The following telegram was received yesterday by Chief Engineer Robinson, from George T. Anthony: "I only know that Leavitt was with the party massacred by papers brought in by informant. It was a party coming in and I don't think Kinable was with them. Will give names as soon as party returns. The Chihuahua stage was taken in near Tucarro Sunday night. Two persons were killed and a nephew of Gov. Hendricks, named Pugh was taken prisoner."

There was general joy throughout the city yesterday on the reception of favorable news from President Garfield. The people waited anxiously the result of the shot from Guiteau. For such a crime there is no adequate punishment. It is true that the life of Garfield as an individual is no more in law than any other person of equal attainments, but as President of the United States it is much more. He as President shapes the policy of government, domestic and foreign and upon which policy so intimately depends business, trade and the well being of society. That policy with Garfield was settled and understood, and a prosperous future stretched out before the people and the country. No punishment is adequate for the insignificant and unaccountable whelp who can rudely strike down a chief executive and plunge a whole nation into grief, hurt its credit and destroy confidence in business. Death, torture or imprisonment does not reach this case. There is no just compensation attainable in it.

VENGEFUL DEMONS.

Additional Particulars of the Indian Massacre in Mexico.

El Paso, July 4.—The bodies of the massacred engineering party of the Mexican Central Railway were found by Mr. Field, of Las Cruces. Mr. Field has mining interests in Chihuahua, and was on his way to El Paso en route home. When about fifty or sixty miles south of El Paso he came up with four Mexicans who urged him to turn back, stating that Indians had been seen in the neighborhood. But Mr. Field, anxious to reach his home, informed them of his purpose to continue his journey. The Mexicans taxed their powers of persuasion to prevail on him to give up his journey, and at length told him that five Americans had been killed just above them. Mr. Field finally hired the quartette to go on with him. Coming to the top of an elevated position, moving cautiously all the time, he saw below him and not far away, a light wagon was smashed and broken. Ranged about this broken wagon he could plainly discern the naked bodies of human beings. The report was verified by this spectacle. The little party fell back and secreted themselves till night came on when creeping up to the place a sickening sight met the gaze of Mr. Field. The bodies of five Americans were found, horribly mutilated and hacked and burned beyond recognition. The stench about the place was frightful, and under the burning sun in that sandy waste, the bodies were fast becoming decomposed. They are supposed to have been dead thirty-six hours. Searching about, Mr. Field found letters and papers clearly denoting that the unfortunate victims were members of the engineering corps of the Mexican Central Railway. About the place were at least fifty pony tracks. There can be no doubt as to who were the authors of this outrage; they were without doubt Indians and members of Nane's band of renegades. Mr. Field made his way as fast as possible to El Paso and gave the information, an outline of which was given in the GAZETTE. The Mexican military officers at El Paso del Norte sent out a detachment of mounted troops who rode quickly to the point indicated by Mr. Field, where he had found the bodies of eight other members of the party who were killed by the renegade Apaches making thirteen in all. The greatest excitement prevails. The Mexican military officers hunt the reds down if possible and are showing great activity. It is reported that the reds are trying to make a crossing into New Mexico.

CANIS.

The Ball.

The ball at the Hot Springs on the evening of the Fourth was a grand success. The young ladies, Misses Carrie Dyer and Miss Pearl Ireland have a right to feel proud of their success. They secured the rooms at the Hot Springs Hotel, raised over $80 in cash with which to decorate the building and purchase fire works and sent out over 150 invitations. This was all accomplished by these two young ladies within the space of a day and a half. This shows a praiseworthy amount of spirit and energy and cannot be too highly commended. The room was tastefully ornamented, the music was good and the refreshments set at twelve o'clock were excellent. The party lasted until a late hour in the morning when the two young misses had the satisfaction of seeing their party break up a perfect success and of hearing the heartfelt good nights of the well pleased dancers as they departed for their homes in Las Vegas.

The following ladies were present and participated in the festivities of the evening: Misses Millie Shafer, Minnie Cosgrove, Carrie and Josie Stoops, Caddy Robbins, Bettie Garrard, Manie Otero, Martin, Leonard, of Davenport, Iowa, the Misses Closson of Canada, Emma, Hannah, and Dora Friedman, Florence Carpenter, Kate Millington, of Winfield, Kansas, Williams, Pearl Ireland, Carrie Dyer, Wisner, of New York, Lulu Seewald, Belle Jennings, Knick, Cooper, the Misses Adams; Mesdames Chapman, Stoops, Wisner, of New York, Howison, J. E. Saint, Leonard, of Iowa, Ford, Armstrong, Stockton, Oliver, Stark, Otero, Howard, O'Rourke, Simmons, Adams, Oakly.

Found Dead.

Yesterday afternoon about 4 p. m. a man came into Billy's saloon and reported that Lieutenant Whiteside in coming to town found the dead bodies of four men on Montezuma Hill. From the appearances of the bodies the stranger conjectured that the men had been dead a week or more. A reporter tried to find Lieut. Whiteside, but without avail, and the stranger even did not put in a second appearance. The chances are that the story is a canard.

Our German fellow citizens had a picnic and platform dance up the river near Pritchard's brick yard on the Fourth. There was a goodly turn out of all nationalities with the Germans in the majority. They had a splendid time as only the Germans can when they meet together for a day of rest and social enjoyment. It takes the teutonic people to make a first class picnic and there gatherings are noted for sociability and hearty enjoyment throughout the United States.

Doctors N. J. Pettijohn and J. W. Pettijohn, of Topeka, and their wives arrived from the south on yesterday's train.

Mr. Harry Landes receiver of material and foreman of work at the New hotel, Santa Fe, came up Sunday to celebrate the Fourth. We presume other attractions than patriotism was the explanation of his coming.

Mrs. Ramer and daughter, Miss A. J. Ramer, mother and sister of Mrs. S. S. Mendenhall, of this city, left a yesterday for their home in Bethana, Mo. Miss Ramer is an accomplished young lady, and made many warm friends during her short stay in Las Vegas.

The Fourth in the Mountains.

As there was no programme set apart for the celebration of the Fourth of July in Las Vegas, a great many of the citizens made arrangements to go to the mountains. At an early hour on the Nation's natal day large parties were seen hurrying off in various directions towards the mountains. Mendenhall, Hunter & Co. were sorely pressed for vehicles and could hardly supply the unusual heavy demand. The following named persons, who had determined to celebrate at the foot of Hermit's Peak, made up one of the parties:

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hopper, Mrs. Savage, Misses A. J. Ramer, Grace Warner, Mary McKee, Sarah Saul, Lou Talbot and Ernie Angell. Messrs. J. P. Hopper, Dr. Bailey, Chas. Rathbun, Harry Landes, Chas. Allen, W. G. Koogler, Hill, Reeves and Noel.

Lockhart's mill was the objective point and five o'clock, the hour fixed for starting. Promptly, two and a half hours after the time set for starting the carriages assembled on the plaza, and a wild break was made for the point of destination. Each carriage taking its own way. One took the road to the Hot Springs; the second, the road to Sapello; the third, the road to Tiptonville and the fourth and fifth to somewhere, anywhere, nowhere. The air was cool and balmy, the ride was pleasant, the picnics cheerful and little care was taken as to which was the proper way. About ten o'clock, however, it was discovered that the carriages were separated and had lost sight of each other. After a long search one was discovered circling around on the plains as if it contained bottled goods. A system of signals was instituted and all, but one were finally brought together at one place where a council for the good of the order was had. It was then determined to substitute the Sandiuela canyon for Lockhart's mill. A short drive of an hour, over mountains and down canyons brought the party to shady bowers and crystal waters. After a few minutes rest the fireworks were brought into action, which made things lively until noon, when dinner was spread beneath a large tree and all showed themselves true Americans by celebrating this portion of the programme with more than ordinary spirit and appetite. After dinner some of the party stayed in camp chatting and playing, while others strolled up the canyon and over the rugged cliffs and peaks exploring and admiring the sublimity and magnitude of nature's handiwork. The carriage that the signal service failed to bring in got within a half mile of the picnic grounds and there wearied of search, celebrated by itself. Between three and four o'clock the teams were hitched and the party moved down the canyon toward home. All hands feeling that the day had been happily spent in a pleasant place.

John Piekler was arrested yesterday afternoon and taken before Judge Steel for stealing a check on a New York bank and fifteen dollars from a young fellow who was in an inebriated condition in a dance hall on the east side. The youth was reclining in a drunken condition on a table and Piekler was supposed to have rifled his pocket. W. H. Whitelaw Esq. prosecuted the case and Captain Ford conducted the defense. The evidence was not overly strong in the premises. The argument was continued until a late hour last night.

The opening of the Bon Ton Keno Parlors of the east side Saturday night was a complete success, closing at day-break Sunday morning. The game is run after the Colorado fashion of Keno which is interesting and fascinating. Everything was conducted quietly and orderly, and their lunch which is set at eleven o'clock, came in very handy at the wee small hours; give them a call and try your luck. Open every night.

N. B. The nocturnal illuminator on the corner of the building is the indicator of the location.
